14,000 ITALIANS TAKEN AT TOBRUK

Speaking Of Invasions, These Boys Put a Little Reverse English On The Idea

A British unit drilling for the continental invasion.

This is the type of heavily-armored motorcycle unit the British are sending against the Germans in France.

The British are not only standing off the Germans, they are actually shooting a few preliminary sparks of lightning war to the German forces strong out along the French coast nearest Britain according to reports now trickling across the Atlantic. Heavily-armored motorcycle units are making lightning thrusts into German-held territory, going across the English Channel on trawlers during the night. They land, make a quick dash against the Germans. Sometimes they take prisoners and get back to England, sometimes they don't come back at all. In any case, the Germans are highly annoyed. The British intention is to invade the continent and they are drilling invasion units, like that pictured above, in methods to be used once the army is landed.

Number Of Italians Captured In Desert Now Total 10,000

Corps Commander, Three Other Generals and an Admiral Among Those Captured—Mopping Up Is Completed

By PHILLIPS TAYLOR

CAIRO, Jan. 23.—(BUP)—The British middle east command reported today that capture of Tobruk had brought the total of Italian prisoners taken in the sweep of the Imperial army of the Nile across the western desert to almost 100,000 officers and men.

The high command reported that the thrust of British forces into Eritrea was steadily driving the Italians back. The Fascist troops have now retired to positions covering Biscia and Barento, the high command said, 60 to 75 miles inside Eritrea.

Part of the high command said, has brought more than 14,000 prisoners taken, including three generals and an admiral. This brought the British bag of Italian generals to 15.

RAF IS ACTIVE

Italian casualties included at least 2,000 wounded while British losses were stated at less than 500.

Mopping up of Tobruk, the high command said, was completed last night, leaving the British free to move up their siege forces against Derna where armoured units already are feeling out the Italian defenses.

The Royal Air Force made plans that the opening phase of the attack on Derna was already under way.

Its communiqué reported that early Wednesday several hundred planes were dumped on the barracks and military targets in the town, and that they could be seen 80 miles away through the clear desert.

The 14,000 prisoners already taken by the British at Tobruk amount to the Italian army division.

About 200 guns of all calibres were captured with quantities of other equipment.

Capt. Kerkhoven on Thursday addressed a joint luncheon meeting of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs, the Dutch Club, and the Dutch Women's Club, at the Hotel Vancouver.

He said that the Dutch people were going to give in to the Nazis, and that they were going to give in to the Nazis.

Vital Changes Seen In Canada's War Effort On Military, Production Front

Today's War Moves

REPORTS that General Antonescu has gained victory over the revolt of the Iron Guards in Rumania cannot be accepted as indicating that permanent stability has been established. The fundamental grievance of the Iron Guards is the recent annexation of Rumanian territory by Hungary under German direction; and the possibility of further uprisings will exist as long as return of at least part of the area is denied.

The seizure of Bessarabia and Northern Bukovina by Rumania and southern Dobruja by Bulgaria have not caused as much open resentment as the loss of Transylvania to Hungary because more Transylvanians have clear affinity with the Rumanians. Too, there has long been nationalistic rivalry between Rumania and Hungary.

When Antonescu became Premier of Rumania at the time of the dismissal of King Carol, he declared the Rumanian territorial claims would receive his sympathetic treatment but that nothing could be done for the present. The Iron Guards, who are ambitious to become the governing power in Rumania, have been using General

Costs Of War In 1941 For Canadian Citizens To Exceed 1940 Total

Army Reserve Training Scheme To Be Step-up To At Least 4-Month Camp Period—Air Training Plan Will Be Speeded

By B. T. RICHARDSON

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Jan. 23.—Canada's war effort that topped the billion dollar mark in 1940, according to figures issued from the department of munitions and supply, will undergo drastic adaptation in 1941 in line with latest information on the battle of Britain brought back by Hon. J. L. Ralston and Hon. C. D. Howe.

One thing on which all observers agree is that in 1941 the total costs of war to the Canadian people will far exceed the 1940 total of $1,165,839,329 reported. High as it will go, it is a matter of pure speculation at this stage, but it may easily go to two billions or more. Finance officials are already working on the new budget, expected in March when the official forecast will be revealed.

On the military and production fronts vital changes are indicated in recent developments. The cabinet will get Col. Ralston's confidential report this week, but Mr. Howe is not yet back in Canada.

Anticipated changes in the war effort will include:

1—Stepping up the army reserve training scheme to at least a four-month period of camp service for trainees.

2—Stepping up the Commonwealth Air Training Plan to rush more men to the coming offensive against Germany.

3—Shake-up of the aircraft production program, now the centre of rising criticism as production schedules lag.

4—Adjustment of the tank production program to latest developments.

5—Reorganization of the munitions production program to fit.

BRITISH RAIN BOMBS ALONG FRENCH COAST

Dueseldorf's Industrial Area Heavily Raided During Night

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(BUP)—

The Royal Air Force rained bombs on the French invasion coast today after a severe attack last night set great fires in the industrial region of Dueseldorf.

The invasion coast was reported from Dover where the sound of heavy explosions came from the French shore, indicating a strong R.A.F. attack was in progress.

The night attack on Dueseldorf concentrated on steel, coal and gas and oil works.

The air ministry said the raid lasted two and a half hours and started many fires. Bomb incendiaries and high explosive bombs were employed.

"There was one particularly large explosion," the ministry said, "from which debris was thrown high in the air."

The blazing fires lit the sky, the ministry said.

The attack came a few hours after one of the most daring flights of the war in which six Polish members of a famous Hurricane squadron of the Royal Air Force participated.

In this earlier raid the Polish pilots machine-gunned German motor buses, grounded supplies, German troops, truck convoys and

Iron Guard Disorders Still Rage In Rumania; Important Bucharest Buildings Held

Guardists Also In Control Of Some Cities In Provinces According To Reports—Seeping Through Censorship

By LEON KAY

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 23.—(BUP)—Confused and fragmentary reports, seeping through a close censorship, indicated today that 30,000 or more men of the Nazi-like Rumanian Iron Guard held the radio station and other buildings in Bucharest and that Iron Guardists were in control of some cities in the provinces.

Guardists, or Legionnaires, as they now call themselves, proved their control of the Bucharest radio station last night by broadcasting a claim that they controlled all ministries and other public buildings there, the navy base at Galatz and the army barracks at Craiova.

Reports indicate that conditions approaching a state of anarchy are spreading in the provinces and that the army and police, loyal to Gen. Ion Antonescu, the premier, were no longer master of the situation.

Over the "Legionary radio" station, Ion Antonescu broadcast an appeal to all Iron Guardists to obey orders only of Ion Antonescu, the real leader of the Legion.

They appealed to Gen. Antonescu to join their side or one of the "real guardians of the people of the Iron Guard," and they repeated appeals to the army not to fight the guard.

Antonescu ordered a 2 p.m. curfew.

UNIT OF ALL BRITISH, U.S. STATES URGED

Exiled German Author and Americans Support World Federation

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(CP)—A prominent German author and three well-known Americans called Wednesday night for immediate Federal union of all English-speaking democracies of the world, based on the United States constitution.

In speeches at "The United States of the World" conference, Federal Union Incorporated, Thomas Mann, refugee German author, playwright, Clara Booth, columnist Dorothy Thompson, and Clarence K. Streit, well-known foreigner correspondent, agreed on the principle of a union of democracies. American support of the British Empire was urged by Lord Marley, Deputy-Speaker of the British House of Commons.

WAR PREVENTATIVE
Mann, strong anti-Hitlerite and a Nobel prize winner, said "there is hardly any doubt that in 1933, such a union, the union of all real democracies, under the leadership of the greatest and best of men, would have prevented the outbreak of the war, had it not been for the German act for union now, before the war was brought our free world down to doom."

SEVEN DEMOCRACIES
Mas Booth said the policy of the union "would have been to prevent the outbreak of the war, had it not been for the German act for union now, before the war was brought our free world down to doom."

She offered the union program as a plan to assure a Democratic victory in the present war and to "keep the civilized areas of the world at peace" after conclusion of the war.

"Morally, we are at war now," she said. "All talk of neutrality is an attempt to deceive the people, an attempt to keep the civilized areas of the world at peace" after conclusion of the war.

Miss Thompson contended the current world situation is not the result of disunity, but of "democratic failures to solve outstanding social, economic and political questions."

Lord Marley referred to "this wonderful meeting of the United States of the World" conference, Federal Union Incorporated, Thomas Mann, refugee German author, playwright, Clara Booth, columnist Dorothy Thompson, and Clarence K. Streit, well-known foreigner correspondent, agreed on the principle of a union of democracies.

INFLATION IS UNFAIR METHOD MINISTER SAYS

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Revenue Minister Gibson said in an address Wednesday that creation of new money for war purposes would reduce the purchasing power of the dollar and work hardship on Canadians who are living on a fixed income.

"The effect of creation of new money on wage earners is to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar and work hardship on Canadians who are living on a fixed income."

"While we have long been warned as to the dangers of inflation, yet from time to time we hear it advocated, and it certainly has a superficial attraction for some people."

They Foiled It Duce's Bombers

When Italian aircraft joined Hermann Goering's Luftwaffe in air assaults on England for the first time, not a single bomber succeeded in bombing a British town. One of the main factors was the group of British Hurricane fighter pilots. On that first day when Duce was going to bomb England, his five bombers and five fighters were brought down, seven of them victims of the group of nine British pilots. It was a dramatic incident of the air battle when the fighter-charge in the charge of the British squadron, his ammunition exhausted, rammed one Italian fighter with his own plane. The enemy limped home badly damaged, while the British pilot was able to bring his plane down safely.

HIGHER LEVEL FARM INCOMES IS DEMANDED

Federation Convention Delegates Voice Attitude
—Two Aims—
TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Demands of Canadian farmers were embodied in a manifesto calling for an immediate and substantial increase of farm income in relation to the national income, backed by several hundred delegates from all parts of the country gathered here for the convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The manifesto approved by the convention yesterday also called for a power-proposed national policy for agriculture including increasing as well as production.

The two aims were sought "in order to enable Canadian agriculture to play its proper part in the greatest crisis of the world's history."

The delegates also urged the government to take steps to increase the income of farmers, to provide for the needs of the rural population, and to provide for the needs of the rural population.

Tobruk The Key

Tobruk has taken on new importance since the dive-bomber attack on a British-Greek convoy in the Strait of Sicily. Unless the town is held, the British and Greek forces in the east and the eastern end of the sea. And if there is any chance at all to send reinforcements to Sicily, it is by way of Sicily and across this narrow neck of water the shortest and least hazardous route is to be found.

Tobruk is excellently situated for a base from which to counter Italian operations. It has a good harbor, and there are few along the Libyan coast. It is within easy flying and sailing distance of the Strait of Sicily, and the "toe" of the Italian "boot"—the logical jumping off place for enemy air raiders or forces en route to the rescue of Greece. With Tobruk as a base, the British and Greek warships and bombers, the Sicilian route to the east of Sicily can be kept closed, and the "toe" in the eastern Mediterranean kept open. The Italians have spent an enormous amount of time and money building an airport, docks, and other facilities there, and these have been blown to bits. It is as useful to the captors as they were planned to be to the builders.

The capture of Tobruk is as brilliant a feat as the capture of Malta. Because of its location the place is of far more military importance and its loss a correspondingly greater disaster to the Axis.

The Uproar In Rumania

From the unauthorised reports coming out of the confusion that is Rumania, one fact stands clear. Conditions have been created there which offer Hitler an opportunity to make a dash for the Balkans and the country into the midst of civil government and military affairs. Nowhere else has there existed a situation giving him good excuse to take over the "restored order." If Quilings are at the bottom of the turmoil, they have earned the price of their treachery. Rumania is a country where, even the presence of national existence is not as yet assured and the country incorporated into the Reich in succession to Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Should this not happen, the reason almost certainly will be failure on the part of the British to arrive in time to take over the division of the territory. Aside from the possibility that Moscow may demand more British aid, it is also possible that the Rumanians are now being given a choice of one way or another, order must be restored and firmly established in Rumania before it could be safe to take over the "restored order" as a drive against Greece or Turkey. To undertake such an offensive with civil war raging in the rear would be hazardous, even for Hitler.

If the disturbance presents the Fuehrer with an invitation to National Rumania completely, it also makes highly probable that he will do so before he moves his Danubian army out of the country. This may delay whatever military advantage Hitler might gain from the drive against Greece or Turkey.

Britain Follows The Lead

All men and women in Great Britain are to be registered, with a view to their employment in whatever kind of war work they can be fitted for. Opportunity will be given them to do so, and the Government will be the authority of the Government to enlist as they see fit. "There will be no exemption from the registration of men or women," said the Minister of Home of Commons, rich and poor alike being brought into line that the whole labor power of a country can be utilized and to the best advantage.

This action was taken in Canada five months ago. Under the act authorizing the Mobilization of the National Resources, the registration of the men and women of the Dominion was made last August. On the form he or she signed, the registrant was given an opportunity to volunteer for any kind of work, stating qualifications. But behind the scenes, and giving meaning to the registration, is the authority of the Government to require that a compulsory law of the law already existing in Canada, which requires that all men and women, here, as there, volunteers have been given enough to keep the plans moving and carry on all essential industries.

A "Comfort To The Enemy"
Premier Hepburn is evidently bound that he will not again be swayed by the clamor which claims that the Government is apportioning last March. On Tuesday he issued a statement suggesting that the situation warrants a study to determine whether the Government should be expanded beyond what has been done already—about $400,000,000.

With this proposal no reasonable limit can be found. The Government is not in a position to make a study of the economy of the country in a matter which should get frequent attention, in peacetime or wartime, and an examination of the question by competent investigators would be quite in order in view of phenomenal industrial development.

But to the unexceptionable suggestion of the Premier look on occasion to add, "I can think of no greater contribution to the enemy than to find the Mackenzie King Government, in office when the war broke out, still holding office."

There is the "clear ringing note of state-manship" surely. This is the name Mr. Hepburn, by the way, whose anxiety to avoid anything which might disturb Canadian unity would not permit him to even discuss the recommendation of the Simon Commission in public or in private.

Why the Ontario Premier should have thought it necessary to append this confession of his own mental limitations, there is nothing in the context to indicate. But readers, recalling that the Mackenzie King Government was returned to office last year by a large majority that was ever before given to a Canadian Government, will be able to suggest several things Mr. Hepburn can't think of which are much more likely to delight to Her Majesty. One is Mr. Mitchell Hepburn.

An order-in-council passed at Ottawa empowers the dairy products board to export butter, and if for export, say how much may be owned or held in storage, and set a minimum price for export. This may not be sold. This seems to complete the control powers necessary to enforce price-fixing without halting distribution. The minimum price will be a guarantee to producers that they will not ruin their market if they speed up production to make up the present shortage.

When the British-Axis forces captured the Tobruk airfield they found 87 damaged airplanes there, together with billions of dollars worth of munitions and other supplies. Nothing said about planes and other supplies, but the prevention of monopoly, but no doubt these were also on hand. German agents have been found in the area, and the other bases in Libya were secure against attack. Bittering, he must have thought, that only the Axis forces could play at.

By Harold L. Weir
Tobruk is the key to the British success, including the Italians, knew it should. Nevertheless, the spirit of defeatism among the Italian forces does not detract from the credit due our troops and particularly the Australian divisions who again played a major part in the assault.

Tobruk is a strategically important position, heavily fortified. It was defended by as many soldiers as Italy could cram behind its walls. They had ample time to prepare their defense. Obviously, Italy employed every strategic and device of war to maintain this last position which had become the symbol of the remnant of Italian power in North Africa.

Thus, its capture is more than an important military victory. It is a concrete and bloody end of waning Italian influence and the collapse of the Fascist state.

But if the victory of Tobruk, signifying British mastery of Italy, is a cause for rejoicing, its implications give cause for regret.

The city of it is that if the British can crush Italy in Africa today, they could have crushed her in Africa in 1940. Benito Mussolini was marching into Ethiopia and thumping his nose at Britain and the League of Nations.

If Italy had been opposed and defeated in 1936, she would not have swollen herself into a mean and ambitious imitation of the empire of the ancient Romans, and for co-operation with Hitler; the latter's domination in the destiny of dictators and the influence of the democracies would have been diminished, and there may have been no war three years later.

It is useless, of course, to consider these things in the light of the fact that the water that has flowed under the bridge cannot be recalled nor freshened. Only one thing can be done by mulling over the mistakes of the past and the shortcomings of the past.

All this enables us to say with brightness and amenity:
Thank God for Winston Churchill.

The fall of Tobruk naturally raises three important questions:

1. What effect will this crushing defeat have on Italy herself and on her relations with Germany?

2. What effect will it have on Axis operations?

3. What effect will it have on the plans of the British and the United States?

Italian prestige and Italian military capability have been shattered. The fall of Tobruk is a blow to the Italian military and naval power. It is a blow to the Italian military and naval power.

It looks as if it will have to be all or nothing. He must take over Italy and operate on his own terms. He must throw Italy to the dogs.

Certainly he cannot afford to maintain a mere friendship that is both embarrassing and humiliating to him.

The effect of Bardia and Tobruk on Axis operations is beginning to be evident. It is hardly likely that Rumanian military operations would have been planned in the light of the fall of Tobruk.

It is a tragedy, however, that the audience of the fall of Tobruk has been maintained a benevolent attitude towards Britain for some months—without, however, any real basis for it.

Now she is making great gains of troops in Thrace and using defiant manifestos to Germany.

It is inconceivable that France should regard all these developments unmoved.

General Weygand has an enormous army in North Africa. He is a man of great ability and a man of great courage. He is a man of great ability and a man of great courage.

It is now a commonly held belief that the British are only too ready to accept the terms of the armistice. It is a commonly held belief that the British are only too ready to accept the terms of the armistice.

BRITAIN SEEN AS FORTRESS OF DEMOCRACY

Hon. James Gardner Describes His Visit To England

CALGARY, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Britain today is a great fortress standing on the outskirts of democracy, fighting the battle of all democratic countries in the world. Hon. James Gardner, federal minister of agriculture and food, told a joint meeting of the Kinross and Cyrena clubs and the Calgary Board of Trade Wednesday.

Mr. Gardner told of his trip to Britain last fall, of the damage he saw and of the civilian organization, cooperation and morale after four weeks of the September aerial bombardment.

WAR WORKERS

The speaker told of the war manufacturing he saw going on in Britain, of the winning battle being waged there, as well as on this continent, to produce planes, ships and munitions faster than the Nazis could destroy them. In the next few months, he said, the call would go out in this country for trained manpower to man every part of equipment and every article of armament.

Mr. Gardner described a typical evening in London during the aerial attack. From the end of his hotel he had seen a column of fire shooting up into the air which he compared to a well blowing in a geyser valley. It had been extinguished at

New Zealand To Send Minister To Washington

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Prime Minister Peter Fraser, commenting Wednesday on the forthcoming visit to London of Prime Minister R. G. Menzies of Australia, said there is at present no necessity for him to make a similar trip to Britain.

Mr. Fraser announced that a New Zealand representative will be sent to Washington shortly, possibly with the rank of minister.

Defence Minister P. Jones disclosed the government plan to establish a naval school for training ratings for overseas service. When operating the school will cost 600 ratings annually. New Zealand already trains the men required for manning warships of the New Zealand division of the Royal Navy.

MORALE EXCELLENT

He said of the morale, "Miraculous escapes from death recounted by Londoners. 'Every day,' he said, 'men and women are being saved under conditions in which material power could have them.' In visits to other parts of the country, Mr. Gardner had seen life went on as usual, and morale was excellent. He had visited the Canadian troops stationed in the countryside. 'Don't let anyone think that they have come to get weary of their task,' he said, 'describing the busy preparations being made for the time when they will be called upon to act.'"

WAR'S OUTLAY IN CANADA IS OVER BILLION

Amount Includes Sum Chargeable To Other Empire Countries

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Total war purchasing and plant enlargement contracts placed on Canadian and United Kingdom accounts by the department of munitions and supply and the two purchase organizations it has replaced, amounted to $1,010,822,939 at the end of 1940, the department said Wednesday night.

The total does not include certain contracts yet to be placed under the extension program, the department said.

Of the total, contracts valued at $671,538,719 were placed on Canadian accounts. This figure included plant extensions. Contracts placed by the civil aviation division for airport construction under the British Commonwealth air training plan totalled $1,047,508.

U.K. ACCOUNT

In both these classifications, some expenditures are included which are chargeable to other Empire countries. Contracts placed on United Kingdom account totalled $382,750. This figure does not include contracts valued at $134,187,418 placed on United Kingdom accounts under the plant extension program, together with orders for equipment for the time when they will be called upon to act.

Royal Council Of War In Greece

warded was 72,899, with an average value of $0.00. Of these contracts, 11,167 were placed by the defence purchasing board and the war supply board between July 14, 1939, and April 8, 1940, and $2,522 by the munitions and supply department from April 9 to Dec. 31 last.

The revised figures of capital commitments by the British and Canadian governments for the construction or extension of plants and for plant equipment which will be covered by the crown, now total $397,186,741, the statement said.

About 20 per cent of this sum for the British account and 30 per cent for Canadian account, while the remainder is joint account, is disclosed.

CONTRACTS INCREASE

During 1940 a steady-increasing number of contracts was awarded, rising from 1,912 contracts a month during the first quarter to 8,834 in the fourth quarter.

"The average number of contracts let per week since the inception of the department on April 8, 1940 was almost four times that of the war supply board, and 32 times that of the defence purchasing board," the statement said.

The monthly tabulation of contracts showed a rise in $120,000,000 in October, 1940, the peak month, compared with $4,408,040 spent in August, 1939, just before war broke out.

In the plant extension program, armaments took 35 per cent of the total spent, while chemicals and explosives accounted for 34 per cent. A total of 138 items are affected in this program.

U. S. ARMS TO DEFEND WORLD FREEDOM, SAID

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Col. William T. Chester, U.S. War publisher, expressed belief in an address here Wednesday that the United States will "send arms anywhere in the world where it is necessary to defend democracy."

Addressing the 32nd annual convention of the Canadian Constitution Association, Col. Chester said:

"Two million are being armed in the United States and appropriations are being asked to arm two million more. The story in Washington is that this army is not necessary anywhere in the world where it is necessary to defend democracy."

He said the feeling in the United States now was "vastly different to 1917. At that time, he said, 'people slowly turned in their sympathies. Today there is nothing of the uncertainty that characterized the 1917 feeling—today we are not afraid to stick our necks out.'"

Jap Attack

KUNMING, China, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Six Japanese dive bombers followed by nine in formation landed in the Kunming area Wednesday, but the damage was limited to two villages southeast of the city, which were set afire. Casualties were estimated at 30.

SOCIALISM AS FUTURE ORDER IS DISPUTED

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Claims that "universal socialism" would be an aftermath of the war, were disputed by Senator Arthur Meighen in an address Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the Federation for Community Service.

"We have to offer that we are at a juncture of world history, that a new era is dawning in the world, that there is to be a new order of economic system, a sharp turn taken by humanity, said the Conservative leader in the Upper House."

"What is this new world order?" he asked. "The answer is obvious. But if, as we all hope and pray, and pray, the democracies are successful, there is considerable doubt as to the distinguishing feature of the new day, and as to the nature of the curve that the economic march of man may take."

"If property, profit, the reward of toil, the fundamental instinct of the human race to gain, acquire, to have, to reach somewhere, is taken away, then I for one do not feel we have anything worth fighting for."

German Method

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Sir Archibald Sinclair, an secretary, told the House of Commons today there is "firm evidence to show that the German attack on Britain is made by German planes on British ships according to parachute." He added that the attack is not international convention forbidding such action. "The German method is not protesting in Germany."
